

ANNA TOTH

Product designer based in London

Email: toth.annar@gmail.com | Portfolio: tloth.github.io

EXPERIENCE

Google UX Design Professional Certificate

January 2023–Present

- Following the design process and understanding the basics of UX research
- Foundational UX concepts: user-centered design, accessibility, equity-focused design
- 3 end-to-end design projects: a mobile app, a responsive website, and a cross-platform experience

Frontend engineer at Habito

April 2020–September 2022

- Delivered business value in a cross-functional, agile team
- Developed brand new SEO-boosting landing pages with a strong focus on accessibility
- Established and led the accessibility guild, significantly improving the product
- Maintained the internal design system, working closely together with the design team

Junior frontend engineer at Daye

October 2019–December 2019

Founders and Coders full-stack software development bootcamp

March 2019–June 2019

- Learned usable and accessible software best practices
- Planned, designed and built Tech for Better projects in design and tech sprints
- Used semantic HTML, CSS, vanilla JavaScript, Node, Express and React
- Pair-programmed on student projects
- Mentored the next cohort

SKILLS

- Figma
- Adobe XD
- Gimp
- HTML, CSS, JavaScript (React, TypeScript)
- JIRA, Trello, Notion
- Accessibility best practices
- Empathy, open communication, teamwork
- User research: planning, executing, analysing data

EDUCATION

Scandinavian Studies with Film Studies at UCL

September 2013–June 2017

- Specialised in Norwegian language with a year abroad in Tromsø, Norway
- Completed a CELTA course (Teaching English as a Foreign Language certification)

MISCELLANEOUS

Coached people at the beginning of their software journey at Codebar

Interests: reading (part of a book club), accessibility, postcards

Other languages: Hungarian, Norwegian, Spanish